WELCOME TO OUR FAMILY TABLE - THE DILEO'S LOG HOUSE RESTAURANT

The Dileo family and staff are proud to carry on a tradition built on family, friendship, hard work, and good food.

In 1972, Mary and Joe Dileo built the Log House from Vermont white cedar logs, with help from relatives and friends.

When it opened in 1973, it quickly became a place where people gathered to eat, laugh, and feel at home.

Over the years, the restaurant grew to nearly 4,800 sq ft of cozy, homestyle dining, but the heart of it never changed.

Though Mary and Joe have passed on, their spirit is still here. You can feel it in the wood beams, the photos, paintings, clocks, and collector plates on the walls and in the way we welcome every guest.

Their sons, Gary, Joe Jr. (ret.), and Paul, have devoted decades to carrying on the dream their parents started.

Gary has led the LHR kitchen since he was 16 yrs, and now, as he eases into retirement, his son Tony and brother Paul are proud to continue the service and the tradition, with the help of loyal family, friends and staff.

Every meal we serve still follows the same values this place was built on:
Hospitality, hard work, and hearty, affordable food – the kind that brings people together.

We're grateful you're here, and proud to welcome you to our family table!

THE VALLEY DINER - 1958

JOE DILEO'S DREAM TAKES SHAPE

In 1958, Joe Dileo, Sr. purchased and demolished the Brookside Restaurant, replacing it with the Valley Diner.

Open 24 hours a day, the diner proudly served the community for a decade. In 1972, while the Log House was being built, the diner stayed open. Once construction was complete, the old diner frame was buried right in the front parking lot!

Regulations were certainly different back then.
